HISTORICAL SKETCH.

DAVIDSON COLLEGE owes its origin to the efforts of the Presbyterians of Western North Carolina and of a part of South Carolina—efforts continued for more than half a century—to establish a school of liberal education that should be under their own control.

Before the war of the Revolution the inhabitants of this region established a school of high grade in Charlotte, which was chartered by the Colonial Legislature in 1770, under the name of "Queen's Museum." In 1776 the Legislature of North Carolina re-chartered it under the name of "Liberty Hall Academy." This institution having been discontinued about the close of the war, the people transferred their patronage, in part, to Mount Zion College, at Winnsboro, South Carolina, then under the direction of the Rev. Thomas Harris McCaule.

In 1820 application was made to the Legislature of North Carolina and a charter was granted to "Western College," to be established somewhere to the south-west of the Yadkin River; but this institution never went into operation.

At a meeting of Concord Presbytery, held at Prospect Church, Rowan county, in the Spring of 1835, the Rev. Robert Hall Morrison offered a paper proposing the establishing of a college somewhere in that region. The paper was adopted, and the necessary steps taken to collect funds, select a site, and erect suitable buildings. In process of time, Morganton Presbytery, in North Carolina, and Bethel Presbytery, in South Carolina, were associated with Concord. At the opening of the year 1837, buildings had been erected, and in March of that year, the College was opened. It was named after General William Davidson, who fell on the first of February, 1781, in a skirmish at Cowan's Ford, on the Catawba River, about seven miles from the site of the College.

The first instructors were Rev. R. H. Morrison, President, and Professor of the Sciences; Rev. P. J. Sparrow, Professor of Ancient Languages; and Mortimer D. Johnston, Tutor in Mathematics. It began as a "Manual Labor School"—all the students being required to spend several hours each day, either on the College farm or in some mechanical work. After four years of trial, the manual labor system was modified, and after another year, abandoned.

The College began its work without a regular charter, but in December, 1838, the Legislature of North Carolina granted to it a charter, with the following gentlemen as the original Trustees, viz.:—John Robinson, Ephraim Davidson, Thomas L. Cowan, Robert H. Burton, Robert H. Morrison, John Williamson, Joseph W. Ross, William Lee Davidson, Charles W. Harris, Walter S. Pharr, Cyrus L. Hunter, John D. Graham, Robert Potts, James M. H. Adams, David A. Caldwell, William B. Wood, Moses W. Alexander, Sr., D. C. Mebane, James W. Osborne, Henry N. Pharr, John M. Wilson, P. J. Sparrow, James G. Torrence, Charles L. Torrence, John L. Daniel, Pierpont E. Bishop, George W. Dunlap, and John Springs—28 in all, with the privilege of electing eighteen more. The first class was graduated in 1840.

In 1855 Mr. Maxwell Chambers, of Salisbury, North Carolina, bequeathed to the College a legacy amounting to two hundred and fifty-eight thousand dollars. Large and commodious

TO THE ALUMNI.

At a meeting of the Alumni Association of Davidson College, North Carolina, held during the last annual Commencement, it was resolved with great unanimity and enthusiasm, to endow an

as a fitting testimonial from the scattered children to their loved Alma Mater, of their interest and attachment; the same to be formally presented on the occasion of the semi-centenary anniversary, at their annual Commencement in 1887.

The undersigned were appointed a Committee to carry out this purpose of the Association. They now present you the attached paper, which is the same signed by those members of the Association present at the last Commencement, when more than five hundred dollars was liberally subscribed, that you may have the same opportunity of showing your interest in this worthy project. They have undertaken the work with great earnestness, and ask the liberal support of all the Alumni of the College, without whose aid they can accomplish very little.

It is also greatly to be desired that all the Alumni of the institution be present at the next meeting of the Association, when more systematic measures will be adopted to secure this object.

Any one of the Committee will willingly furnish any information, or receive any subscriptions that may be sent them.

buildings were erected, the corps of instructors was enlarged, chemical and philosophical apparatus and geological cabinets were procured, and thus more fully equipped, the College has continued its work without intermission to the present time.

The following table gives the number of students in attendance each year since the opening of the College, so far as it has been possible to ascertain it. The table is incomplete; in some years no catalogue was printed; for other years no copies of the printed catalogues have been found:

Within the last seven years the Board of Trustees has been enlarged so as to include representatives from all the Presbyteries of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. It has thus become the College of the Presbyterians of these four States, under their control, but not sectarian in its government or course of instruction. Its aim as expressed in its charter is "to educate youth of all classes without any regard to the distinction of religious denominations, and thereby promote the more general diffusion of knowledge and virtue."

The College has never been in a more prosperous condition than at present. The number of students is nearly as great as at any time in its history; the number of States represented by the students is as large as that of any other College in the South, with probably two exceptions; the very small debt resting on the College will be cleared off at the close of the present academic year; the revenues of the College have been somewhat increased by judicious management and by the increase of the number of students; additions are made every year to the apparatus, cabinets, and libraries—the number of volumes in the libraries (of the College and of the Literary Societies) amounts to about nine thousand; the standard of scholarship has been raised, and by the changes made in the course of instruction this year it is believed that it will be raised still higher.

The friends of the College feel that they can confidently appeal to the Alumni for their hearty, liberal support in their effort to increase its facilities for instruction.
